Personal Liability for Company Taxes – Case Study

sackground

US-based AllSecure Group aimed to enter the Swiss insurance market.

- New Swiss subsidiary established in early 2019.
- Two long-term employees seconded from the US to Switzerland for business development.

hallenges

COVID-19 Pandemic impacted business operations.

- Swiss market was already saturated.
- Decision to close Swiss Operations taken in Summer 2023.

_iquidation

- US employees transferred back to the US by the end of November 2023.
- Liquidation process started in December 2023 and was completed in early 2025.

ESOP Program

- Employees
   benefited from
   Employee Stock
   Option Program
   (ESOP) of the US parent
   during their time in Switzerland.
- Significant profit from exercising options and selling shares in 2024 due to market recovery and favorable stock prices.

ESOP Taxation in Switzerland

Granting of Options

No immediate tax consequences when options are granted (except for listed options).

Exercise of Options

Taxable event occurs when options are exercised (transfer of shares to the employee or cash settlement).

Taxable Income

The difference between the exercise price and the market value of the shares at the time of exercise is considered taxable income.

Social Security Contributions

This taxable income is also subject to social security contributions.

Sale of Shares

Any gain from the sale of shares is generally tax-free for private individuals, provided the shares are held as private assets.

- → If the employee is no longer a Swiss tax resident at the time of exercise, Switzerland may still tax the portion of the income that relates to the period of employment in Switzerland.
- → The taxable income from the exercise of options is also subject to Swiss social security contributions if the options were granted during the period of Swiss employment.

Personal Liability for Company Taxes – Case Study

Taxes

In principle, the social security contributions as well as the wage tax at source would be owed by the Swiss company that acted as employer. Since January 1, 2025, social security contributions and taxes can be enforced through bankruptcy proceedings if the debtor is registered in the Swiss commercial register. Previously, only seizure was allowed.

If the employer is a legal entity, the members of the board of directors and all individuals involved in management or liquidation are subsidiarily liable.

In cases where multiple individuals are responsible for the same damage, they are jointly and severally liable for the entire damage.

No liability for individuals with no fault.

Joint and several liability of formal and factual liquidators.

Liability limited to liquidation surplus.

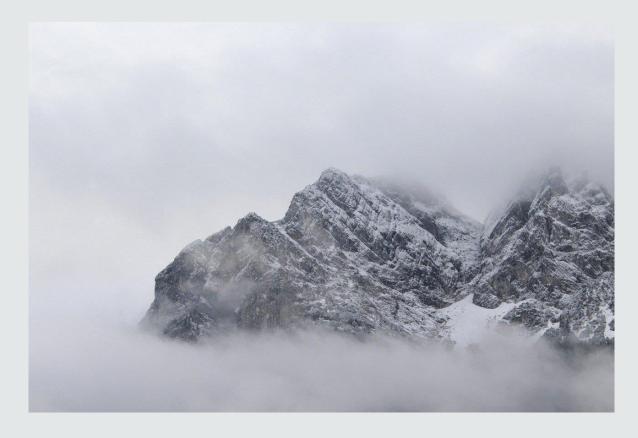

Exclusion of liability through strict evidence on due care / exculpation.

Bonus Question: What would have been the outcome if the options were only exercised in late 2025 (i.e., after the liquidation)?

Criminal Liability – Timeline "Mixed" Assessment Procedure Corporate Income and Capital Taxes

Criminal Liability – Timeline Self-Assessment Procedure Federal Stamp Duties, WHT, VAT

* Reporting and payment of the tax upon own initiative, requiring the correct legal interpretation.

For VAT purposes, the taxpayer is even required to report according to published guidelines and otherwise state deviations.

** Depending on intention.

*** Unless settlement of WHT by mere notification?

Voluntary Disclosure without criminal Liability

Personal / Corporate Income and Capital Tax

Federal Stamp Duties and WHT

Value Added Tax

If the taxpayer voluntarily discloses tax evasion, prosecution will be waived if:

- a. The evasion is not known to any tax authority;
- b. The taxpayer unconditionally supports the administration in determining the back taxes; and
- c. The taxpayer makes a serious effort to pay the owed back taxes.

Only for the first time, for any subsequent voluntary disclosures, the penalty for tax evasion will be reduced to one-fifth of the evaded tax under the conditions of paragraph.

Based on administrative criminal law

Only for the first time for intentionally committed offences

Further voluntary disclosures have a positive impact on sentencing.

VAT law does not stipulate the first-time principle.

The voluntary disclosure without penalty by a company automatically exempts its executives as well.

Voluntary Disclosure without criminal Liability does not exists for Social Security Contributions!

Voluntary Disclosure – Case Study

Background

A new board member who is appointed CFO of a Swiss company detects irregularities. He discovers that the former CFO, who has also left the company, claimed significantly overstated expenses. It has been decided to claim these costs through civil law proceedings, but at the same time all authorities that may be affected should be proactively informed.

Corporate Income Tax

At the level of corporate income tax, no damage has essentially occurred. Since the CFO is not a shareholder, the overstated expenses would be reclassified as salary but would still be deductible for corporate income tax purposes.

Dividend Withholding Tax

As the CFO is not a shareholder the overstated expenses qualify as salary and not as constructive dividend.

Social Security Contributions

Social security contributions should be reported and pay as soon as possible. However, there is no right to voluntary disclosure without criminal liability.

Personal Income Tax

If the company (or tax authority) informs the relevant tax authority at the CFO's place of residence, his personal right to voluntary disclosure without criminal liability is likely forfeited, as the matter is now known to the tax authority.

Rectification of salary certificate, otherwise company or other executives could face charges for participation in tax evasion?

Criminal Liability – Case Study: Facts Swiss Supreme Court decision of February 3, 2025 (6B_90/2024)

- In 2011, IrishCo granted Swiss PropCo a loan of CHF 93,000,000 at an interest rate of 3.15% per year for five years.
- In 2014, a tax audit took place and The Cantonal Tax Administration of Vaud identified tax risks related to hidden equity and intercompany loan interest.
- Subsequently, Swiss PropCo received a memo from its advisor identifying tax risks and negotiation strategies. As suggested, Swiss PropCo prepared a transfer pricing study to support the 3.15% interest rate.
- The Cantonal Tax Administration contested the study and proposed a compromise interest rate of 2.5%, which Swiss PropCo accepted in January 2015.

Criminal Liability – Case Study: Proceedings Swiss Supreme Court decision of February 3, 2025 (6B_90/2024)

Additional Background

The Swiss Federal Tax
Administration (SFTA) conducted a random audit and identified unjustified interest charges based on agreement with Cantonal Tax
Authorities in Vaud.

A. failed to declare taxable benefits to the SFTA, leading to an evaded tax amount of CHF 211,575

The Cantonal Court of Vaud convicted A. in the second instance for intentional withholding tax evasion, imposing a fine of CHF 8,000. The first instance had acquitted A.

Role

A. was responsible for accounting and tax matters at Swiss PropCo.

Allegation

A. allegedly failed to report taxable benefits to the SFTA based on the cantonal treatment.

Key Issue

Whether A. knew about taxable benefits at the end of the declaration period.

It was not a topic whether the lower interest rate was correctly applied since Swiss PropCo did accept it for CIT.

Federal Court Decision

The Federal Court upheld the lower court's assessment that A. was aware of the taxability of the benefits due to an adjustment made by the cantonal tax Autoritiy for CIT purposes before the declaration deadline. The appeal was dismissed.

Bonus Question: What would have been the outcome if the lender was a Swiss affiliate?

Conclusions and Key Takeaways

Key Takeaways (I)

- Ensure tax compliance / consider company defense costs, taxes, and penalties irrespective of personal exposure.
- Special diligence for liquidations and emigration transactions.
- CIT: Usually, no criminal exposure if diligence for compliance.
- WHT&VAT: Criminal exposure possible even in situations where acting in a company's best interest with due care.
- Documentation is key:
  - Transfer pricing file
  - Intercompany agreements (including schedules and regular updates)
  - Documentation of advice obtained from external counsel
  - Internal policies and manuals to ensure compliance

Key Takeaways (II)

- Mitigating exposure by proactive disclosure of critical transactions, including:
  - Advance Pricing Agreements
  - Tax Rulings
  - Discussions with tax authorities (including documentation)
  - Explanations in tax filings
- Aligning intercompany arrangements with the corporate structure to prevent WHT leakage in the event of a deemed dividend, in particular cross-border arrangements between direct parent and subsidiary
- Special care for typical pitfalls, including:
  - Intercompany financing arrangements
  - ESOP taxation
- Not lightly accept tax authorities' positions in audit.
